REFRAMING OF THE PARTNERSHIP AT CHANGWON

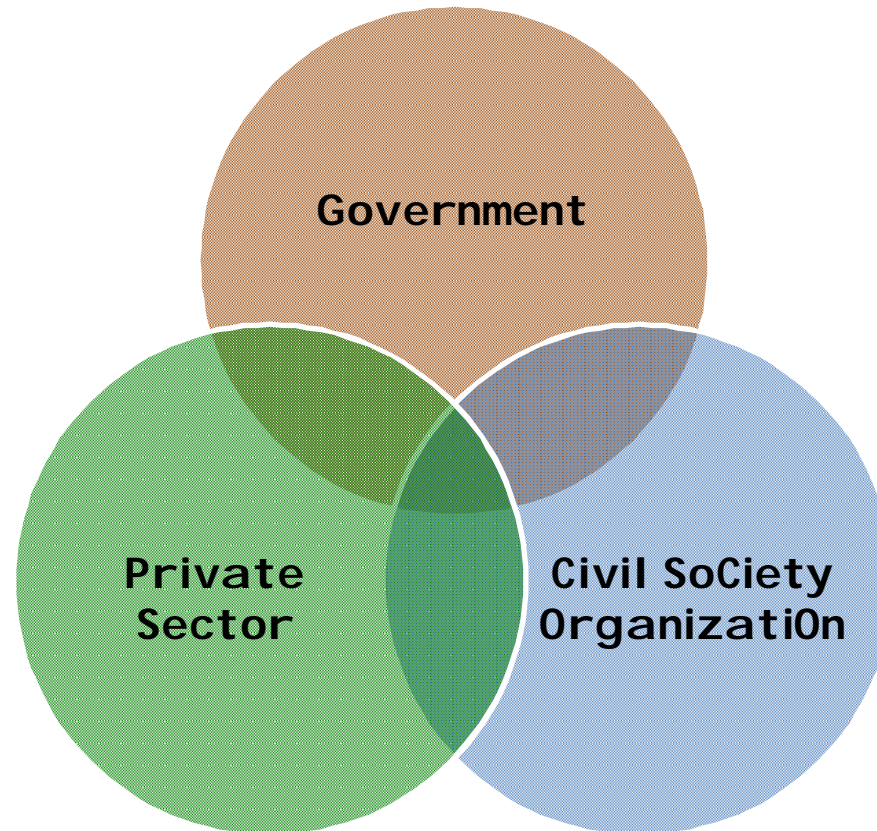

Partnership is seen as an approach to achieve sustainable development with equitable association

Partnership is expected to contribute respective resources in terms of active involvement into the implementation of the UNCCD programmes

Partnership is to combine investment in technology, facilitation in playing enabling role and participation as productive forces

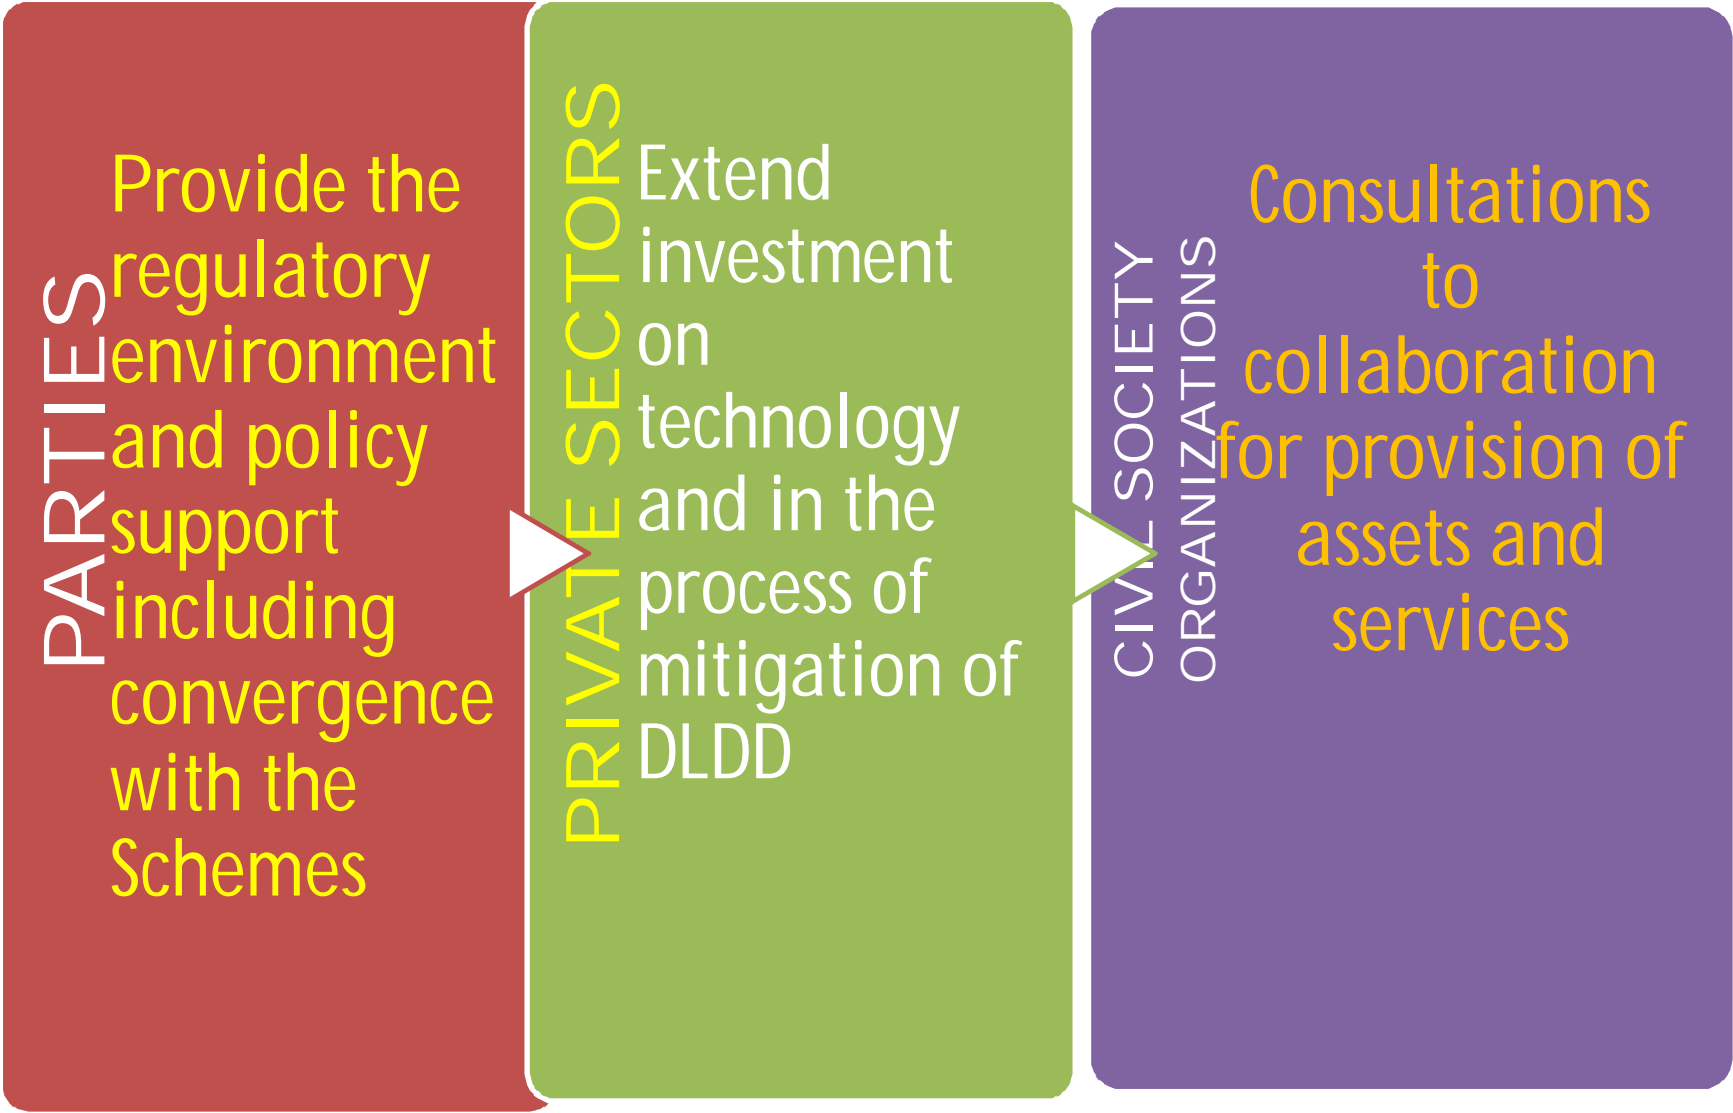

PARTNERSHIP WE WOULD LIKE TO HAVE

The above Partnership model speaks about to mainstreaming the learning of Changwon Initiative to bring about prosperity of affected areas with direct involvement of Community as a stakeholder.

PARTNERSHIP SEEN AS A PROCESS OF UNCCD

Objectives Of Partnership as a Changwon Initiative:

- To create an enabling environment for promoting partnership between Government, Corporate Sector and Civil Society Organizations for development.
- To identify opportunities for private participation in development of the local resources that benefits the communities at large.
- To build capacities of Communities for effective participation in local economic development facilitated by Corporate Sector.
- To create institutional mechanisms to promote partnerships at all levels of implementation

IDENTIFICATION OF POTENTIAL STAKEHOLDER

It is essential to identify partners who have significant and legitimate interests in specific services targeting the poor

Stakeholder analysis is needed to acquire an understanding of the dynamic relationships, influence and interests of stakeholders involved in the development of an initiative under Partnership

Analysis includes

- the commitment of the organizations
- the capacity and attitudes of stakeholders;
- the interests of each stakeholder
- the potential role of the stakeholders;
- the likely impact of the stakeholders contributions
- the risks and assumptions about stakeholders actions.
